Whether her credibility has been sufficiently attacked to create doubt in the minds of the jury as to her teiling the story to Thaw that is said to have unbinged his mind is a matter that only the verdict can decide. The verdict also can only decide whether the relations which existed between Thaw and Evelyn Nesbitt, after she told him her story, were such as to raise a question regarding the sincerity of his feelings for her, and create a doubt as to the claim that his act was the result of constant broading on her wrongs.

MEANEST OF MISERS.

The Terrified Confusion

How a Dublin miser starved himself in order to hoard money while his wife had to be supported by her nephew, was told in the Irish law courts. Both the miser, who was named Burke, and his wife are now dead. Burke left 12,000. From this the nephew, Robert Pyrne, claimed 557, which he had contributed to the wife's maintenance during her lifetime. Mr. Powell, it. C. said that lifteen years ago Burke Bad a legacy of 12,000. He developed miser, by fablts and, according to counsel, practically starved both himself and the wife. The latter applied to Mr. Bythe, the plaintiff, and he advanced.

THE ENGLISH LEAGUE.

Newcastle United has wrested the position of leaders from Everton in the first division of the English League. By consistent form both these teams are gradually drawing away from their nearest opponents, and as matters stand at present the championship may be said to virtually rest with one or other of these two famous aggregations. Woolvich Arsenal is third on the table, but until there is a decided loss of form on the parts both of Newcastle and Everton, not even the clubs immediately below the pair can consider themselves in the running for the championship. A difference of five points between the accord and third clubs is a very wide margin so hate in the season, and the percentage of the spoints of the first half dozen clubs offer little consolation to the hangerson. Newcastle United has wrested the posi-

DEATH FORETOLD BY DREAM.

The story of a remarkable premonition of death in the form of a dream is told by Mrs. Boundy of Lanteglos, by Camelford, Cornwall, whose ten-year-old daughter Eva died while on herway to school. Mrs. Boundy fream the night before the child's death that a nephew who died a few months ago appeared to ner and said that he had come to fatch his cousin. Eva. He added that he had also come for his little stater, and wanted, Eva to carry her. The dream was repeated during broken sleep.

HOW TO WALK PROPERLY.

Nothing Better Than a Twenty-Mile Walk Once a Week,

Many people take a great deal of hard exercise in the summer in the way of sport, and do nothing in the way of sport, and do nothing in the winter. If they would keep fit they should walk, says Mr. Montague Holbein, the famous Channel swimmer, in C. B. Fry's.

destion, which, after all, is a purely ersonal matter, and has to do with personal matter, and has to do with personal matter, and has to do with the state and thickness of the skin of the foot. Some men can swark in any kind of boot. The average man will find out after a time that his feet become sore unless he wear good thick soles. But, as I said before, one cannot dogmatize on this subject."

The right and the wrong way to walk is thus expounded by Mr. Hod-walk is the same of the wagon in the possible, and that it be pushed that the possible, and that it be pushed that the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to the government and the following petition should be forwarded to act as ag

For a steady training tramp in the country some people like to carry a stick, and if a man is accustomed to one there is no harm in it. But the stick should be freely swung, and not used to plod along with in the way an old countryman does. used to plod along with a solid countryman does.

Much of the good to be derived from the walker will come from the walker the hids and walking will come from the walker having an easy swing of the hips and shoulders. Caltivate a motion of the arms, but don't become a slave to it.

Everything worth doing is worth doing gradually, and when attained the possessor is usually units leground.

sessor is usually quite ignorant that he has at last arrived at the success he has been aiming for.

"Talking of walking-sticks, a curious form is recommended by Mr. E. V. Lucas in his book, Domesticities. He insists that the handle, instead of being at the usual right angle, should be bent at an obtuse angle.

"The best style of walking is the casiest. Every athlete—runner, cyclist, or swimmer—has a tendency to get into a certain style of his own. I would advise no man to thwart himself. If he feels that he goes along with most pleasure in a certain posture, let him feel sure that it is beat for him, and that his special build makes it most suitable. Nature, after all, is the best tracher.

But without making a marry of himself the walker should endeavor to carry himself in as upright a position has possible. To stoop forward is awkward, and to walk with the head thrown back is injurious.

When there is a steep hill to go up it should be taken slowly at the start, the mouth should be shut, and good deep breaths taken through the nose. A stiff hit of hill climbing will find out the mar who has a naturally pretty style of walking. The man who can go along collectively and neathy when style of weiking. The man who can go along collectively and nearly when a table farged and blown is naturally a graceful walker.

"Now as to distances. If the object is merely to keep fit through the winter a twenty-mile walk once a week will be quite similation. Contrive on the other six days to do a couple of miles at least-after all, to walk two miles merely means a stroll of three-quarters of an hour duration, and his time can easily be found in the eventime can easily be found in the even-ing. If the athlete is working in a city let him allow the trams to go by un-heeded, and walk instead."

The wise walker will first consider his boots.

"He will continue to consider them and look after them as long as they are in use. He will have them made for him if his feet differ at all in shape. Some people can wear ready-made boots because they have been blessed with feet that are absolutely normal—they are lucky! Thick soles or thin is a difficult subject upon which to lay down rules. I know men who will argue heatedly upon both sides of the question, which, after all, is a purely personal matter, and has to do with the project of a railway branch by way of Cowichan Luke, it was thought advisable to take further steps and a conference with R. This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughterin-law of Lydia B. Pinkham, at Lynn-Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ille, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Della Emerontumm Montrodii, of 114 Latourelle St. Quebe. Que.

belle Emerentianne Montrouil, et lik-Latourelle St. Quebec Que.

Dear Mrs. Finkham:

"I suffered for eight months with what the doctors called prolapms, which caused great weakness all over my system, with faint dizzy spells. I kent growing weaker and weaker. I tried several mentelnes which they claimed would care my trouble, but nothing was of the least benefit until I stied lyding. Finkham 2 Vegetable Compound, and this helped me so rapidly that I could hardly believe my good fortene. I would gladly have paid $2.00 for that first bortile, for it started me on the road to health, and five bottles cured me. I am meet grateful for my splendid, robust health, and shall certainly recommend the Vegetable Compound in glowing terms to all my friends and zequaintances, for it is deserving of a the praise I can give it.

Mountains of proof establish the fact that, no meeticine in the world equals that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound for restoring women's health.

It is almost impossible for strikes to occur, as every question of hours and wages is submitted to courts of arbitration, having all the powers of a legal tribunal.

The advantages to the workers are not cenfined to the journeyman merchant of the seminal status of those employed in wholesale houses. Now sir, we have the power at present to do great things in this province, and first of all we should take steps to protect the crown lands, timber and minerals so that a portion of the proceeds shall be available for the general advancement of the people by way of kigher education, sanitariums, old age pensions. If we take these matters in hand we do the pest work of the Socialities and undoubtedly we shall have the opportunity of a province. of the Socialists and undoubtedly we shall have the co-operation of all true-hearted men of all political creeds.

DOG CATCHING. To the Editor: - Victoria is a city with cenery that cannot be rivaled. A town istly called by its citizens the Pearl of the Pacific. It also boasts a system of dog catching that can be justly term-ed the Hermit crab of the Pacific, in-somuch as it belongs to a past age, the age of Flint lock guns and stage All through the year (weather per-

All through the year (weather per-mitting) we are treated to the spec-tacle of a gentleman perambulating our streets with a kind of a large rat-trap on wheels, and searching with an eagle eye and a very large specimen of butterfly net for some stray dog whose owner has failed to render tribute to Caesar. Later this same official may be observed travelling on the wines of observed travelling on the wings of he wind, and with a somewhat heated the wind, and with a somewhat heated brow, in pursuit of some canine. The scene is interesting, of course, but when the unhappy dog is caught (which does not often happen) the sight of the way in which it is hotsted and shoved into the before mentioned art trap on wheels is not cheering to a person of humane feelings.

Now it is only eight and proper that

Now, it is only right and proper that Now, it is only right andsproper that along taxes should be paid; everybody with sense admits this fact. I have had the honor of doing so for many years, and so far have found nothing mysterious in the process of obtaining the little bit of metal which spells freedom o our dumb friends. It is the way in to our dumb friends. It is the way in which this tax is collected that is objectionable. Why not introduce the method in use in wreat Britain, namely, every owner of a dog must report at the city treasury, and there pay the legal tax on the animal. Failing this the owner is unmoned.

ANOTHER ASPECT.

To the Editor:—While the blessed ladies are being signing that patriotic petition asking the Dominion government to reduce the tax on Chinamen, Just a SPCOII brand of pix tift, you know, they want one for the ladies and one for the farmers. I suppose they mean the Chinese farmers. He affects they mean the Chinese farmers. He many means the process of the many of th

THE USUAL TOPIC.

To the Editor:—In one of your recent issues you say that a good deal of your valuable space is taken up by correspondence, but I really think that your paper is increased in interest by your aflowing everyone to express their opinions, I admit not always too courterously. "Docere ab hoste" (fearn from teously, "Docere ab hoste" (fearn from teously, "Docere ab hoste" (fearn from teously).

every wise soldier in life's battle. And a letter in last Wednesday's Times from one who styles kimself Mechanic, is instructive to those he objects to. The owners of "dinky estates," the out of work laborer of Ontario and Great Britain, the Chinese coolie and the "crying employer" who can get no employees. I am sending "Mechanic's" letter to London, and I hope it will be useful in warning those who are about to purchase "dinky estates" against to purchase ginky estates against any ideas of having the shadow of a civilized home in British Columbia or of thinking any can aspire to the kind of life styled by Mechanic "Lords of the Manor," and be able to take part in "pink and yellow teas" tennis and cricket, boating, fishing and other occupations that reany working men as cupations that many working men as well as "Lords of the Manor" indulge in in the old country,

May I suggest to "Mechanic" that e reads "A Study in Contentment" in the American Magazine for November and December, and perhaps, he will realize that life and the enjoyment thereof does not always or to all people mean dollars, and that a home with some cents and occupation is worth more than all that Mechanic and others are struggling for and trying to pre-vent others from earning.

I am afraid I am late, for i see trains passing my "dinky estate" that I have formed out of the forest, and where afternoon teas are given, and these trains even thus early are filled with those that look like laborers who have come to work at the first job hey can the owner is summoned to appear in the police court and fined. Moreover, this is inforced; it is not a dead letter, and I can answer that the method is very successful.

If a man values his dog he will readily pay the small cost of a tag. If he does not think this much of his animal he ought not to keep it.

If a come to work at the first job they can unlon men; just nice people like Mr. set, and Io have what "Mechanis" and Sayward and a certain admitted cow. I have been able to get "a stake" in this beautiful province. I want to tell every earnest man or woman, that Brivelle are brave, the common laborer, the Chinese coolle (to clear our land) and for those who

P. S. Since I wrote this letter I noticed that a very long and influential memorial has been signed for the return of the Chinese "help." I notice that many mechanics gives as well as owners of "dinky estates" have signed.
